National Newspaper Week: The Pen Is Mightier Than ...

Editor's Note: This is National Newspaper Week. I can't think of a better salute than to reprint an editorial I wrote in 1965. It was distributed by the editorial service of Southern Newspaper Publishers Association, Chattanooga, Tenn., and published throughout the nation. I received hundreds of reprints, one that I especially cherish being a double-column spread in the Richmond (Va.) Times-Dispatch, one of America's most distinguished newspapers, dated Oct. 13, 1966. Two-thirds of a generation have passed since I wrote it, and with a bow to today's generation I am reprinting it.

The one quotation that has always rung false to my ear as an insult to common sense states glibly, "The pen is mightier than the sword," because it is perfectly obvious to the student of history that the very first thing that goes down when men start fighting among themselves is the free press and whatever other means of communication a pen might be applied to.

As is usually the case, however, the full quotation is a gem of truth; it is the popular habit of using merely part of it out of context that warps the meaning and turns a humble admonition into lying bombast.

For what we popularly accept as being the whole quotation is actually only the second line—and the minor one at that. Its author was Edward George Bulwer-Lytton (Baron Lytton 1803-1873) and what he wrote was this in "Richelieu":

"Beneath the rule of men entirely great
The pen is mightier than the sword."

Every time you hear that misquoted quotation, "The pen is mightier than the sword," remember that some idle citizen is attempting to saddle responsibility on the press and is forgetting his own individual obligation to make sure that all of us shall continue to live "Beneath the rule of men entirely great"—without which there is peace and security for none.

Officials subpoenaed

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — High-ranking state and federal officials have been subpoenaed as witnesses in the marijuana smuggling trial that begins here Monday for Roger A. Glasgow, 30, of Little Rock, Ark.

Glasgow, former Arkansas deputy attorney general, is accused in a two-count indictment of illegally importing marijuana from Mexico to the United States and with possession of marijuana with intent to distribute it. Glasgow, who has since left the state job to enter private law practice, was arrested at the International Bridge over the Rio Grande here Aug. 25. U.S. Customs officers said they found about 23 pounds of marijuana in a car occupied by Glasgow and his wife, who was not charged.

A jury of eight men and four women was seated Tuesday to hear the trial.

Hanoi hit, diplomat injured

Saigon (AP) — U.S. warplanes attacked Hanoi today and the French said their diplomatic mission was heavily damaged and their chief envoy wounded.

In response to a French protest, the U.S. Command said initial operational reports indicated that Navy planes hit military targets 2 1/2 to 3 miles from the mission buildings. It promised an investigation of a French complaint.

"A number of enemy surface to air missiles were fired at the U.S. aircraft," the statement said. "No U.S. aircraft were lost, and the surface to air missiles, after missing the aircraft, could have impacted on the ground."

A spokesman agreed the statement might give the impression that the destruction of the mission headquarters was caused by the North Vietnamese missiles. The command refused, however, to rule out the possibility of U.S. bombs going astray and hitting the French compound.

The command said the military targets attacked included major railroad yards and transshipment points across the Red River north of the French delegation.

In Paris, President Georges Pompidou after a Cabinet meeting called the bombing "a deplorable act." The French protest was handed to U.S. Ambassador Arthur K. Watson.

A French government spokesman said the chief of the mission in the North Vietnamese capital, Delegate-General Pierre Susini, was "very seriously injured."

While his injuries were not fatal, Susini suffered from loss of blood and shock, the spokesman added. Three other diplomats and the mission's French secretaries were unhurt, but four Vietnamese employees were missing.

First to comment in Saigon on the bombing was Gen. John W. Vogt, deputy commander of the U.S. Command and chief of the 7th Air Force. He promised an investigation.

"Right now, I can honestly say I know nothing about it," he said. "I can't imagine how it could have happened. We'll just have to go into it and see what happened. We're going to take a good hard look at it. What we have to do is pick up the pieces and see what the allegations are and try to piece it together."

Tam, the Soviet news agency, reported from Hanoi that the American planes bombed the central part of the city. The Tam correspondent said several heavy demolition bombs hit the French headquarters—a group of five buildings on a main avenue—and virtually destroyed it.

The air attack on Hanoi was the first in several weeks and came as peace talks between President Nixon's adviser Henry A. Kissinger and North Vietnamese representatives in Paris were going into their fourth day.

There was speculation in Saigon that the attack on Hanoi had been ordered in an attempt to prod the North Vietnamese into agreeing to the U.S. and South Vietnamese demands.

CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. George McGovern, outlining the steps he as president would take to end the Vietnam war, says the United States can have peace "any day that we put the saving of lives ahead of the saving of face."

The Democratic presidential nominee presented his seven-point plan in a nationally televised speech Tuesday night. He said he would suspend U.S. bombing, military action and aid to Vietnam on inauguration day, and dispatch his vice president to Hanoi.

Saying President Nixon's "decisive military action" has failed to bring peace to Indochina, McGovern declared that his proposal is "a program that will work" and is similar to the method used by France in withdrawing from Indochina in 1954.

The South Dakota senator said there are two basic differences between his plan and Nixon's: the administration's effort to maintain the government of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu, and the view that military action can successfully end the conflict.

McGovern outlines peace plan..

McGovern said Nixon "has had no choice" and failed to produce peace, noting that "40 per cent of all the Americans lost in Vietnam have died in the last four years, died under the present administration." "Now the answer to failure is not more of the same," he said. "And yet, I fear continued war is what the Nixon administration has in store if they stay in power." Later in the evening, McGovern spoke to a crowd aided said numbered 10,000 persons at a $18-a-plate fund-raising dinner. He declared the choice in the Nov. 7 election is "between endless war in Indochina or the very distinct possibility—and I believe the absolute necessity—that we could have peace in Vietnam, and we could have it any day that we put the saving of lives ahead of the saving of face."

McGovern's Vietnam speech was considered by aides to be one of the most crucial of his entire campaign. It was taped Sunday and carried on the CBS network and other stations at an over-all cost of $170,000, including production costs and time, a McGovern spokesman said.

It followed closely the general proposals the candidate had made on Vietnam in the past, but attempted to fill in the gaps to counter a widespread impression reflected in some surveys that his withdrawal program would not work.

Praise for McGovern's stand came from Howard D. Samuel, executive director of the National Labor Committee for McGovern-River. "McGovern has concisely and logically laid out a public program that is noteworthy for its sensible solution to a war that Richard Nixon

..but leaves himself an out

WASHINGTON (AP) — George McGovern's plan to end U.S. involvement in Vietnam has a catch that could leave him in the same position now held by President Nixon: bombing the North until prisoners are released.

Although the Democratic presidential nominee said Tuesday that he would order an immediate end to bombing and all acts of force in Indochina upon taking office, he apparently left himself a loophole.

"After all our prisoners have been returned, and we have received a satisfactory accounting of any missing men," McGovern told a national television audience, "I would order the secretary of Defense and the joint chiefs to close our bases in Thailand ..." headquarters for much of the U.S. bombing power, "and to reassign elsewhere any ships still stationed in the waters adjoining Indochina."

That would indicate McGovern would keep a residual force available for use if the prisoners were not released.

And, while he gave no indication he would expect any trouble from North Vietnam over the POWs, McGovern inserted a condition on a total disavowal of the use of force in Indochina. After outlining his plans for an immediate end to U.S. military acts and a 90-day limit for an American pullout from Indochina, McGovern said he would instruct U.S. negotiators in Paris to:

"Notify the representatives of the other side that we have taken these steps to end the hostilities, and that we now expect that they will accept their obligation under their own seven-point proposal of 1971—to return all prisoners of war and to account for all missing in action. We will expect that process to be completed within 90 days ..."

3 bomb-makers are blown up

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Three young IRA bomb makers blew themselves up late Tuesday at the end of a day of violence in Northern Ireland that took five lives and left a man wounded.

A judge, Robert Staunton, 40, was shot three times today while driving through the Roman Catholic Falls Church area after dropping his children off at school, authorities reported.

Staunton, a Catholic, was hit in the neck, shoulder and arm by a gunman riding on the back of a motorbike who fired eight shots before fleeing. The judge was listed in satisfactory condition after emergency surgery.

It was the second recent assassination attempt on a public official. William Craig, a leader of the Protestant militants and a former minister in Ulster's government, escaped injury last week when a terrorist fired three bullets at him. Irish Republican Army sources said three members of its Provisional wing were killed while mixing explosives in an abandoned Belfast house.

The first relatively small blast ignited other bomb-making stores in the house. The second explosion lifted the roof off the building and turned it into an inferno.

Neighbors in the Roman Catholic Lower Falls district fled from their homes as the flames spread to six nearby houses. Seven children in the house next door to the explosion escaped from their beds.

British army headquarters said the dead were two teenagers and a man in his early twenties.

Northern Ireland's known death toll from three years of strife rose to 682.

Question: What to do with state $ surplus?

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Educational needs will command major attention in 1973 when the Arkansas Legislature meets to divide the fat state surplus.

Gov. Dale Bumpers already has indicated that he wants to designate generous portions of the money for educational purposes.

Chief among the governor's recommendations so far is an expenditure of $14.5 million to $15 million to expand and improve the University of Arkansas Medical Center at Little Rock.

Other surplus-financed educational projects that Bumpers has said he wants to include construction of a state library and archives building, starting a free textbook program in the upper four grades of the public schools and expansion of the state's educational television network.

These are the variety of capital improvements and special projects for which the state's financial experts want to spend the surplus.

Other educational demands, such as teacher salary increases and bigger operational budgets for the state-supported colleges and universities, would come from regular general revenues.

Bumpers has estimated the cost of the state library and archives building at $3 million and starting the textbook program at $5.3 million. Expansion of the educational television network to full-color programming statewide, which Bumpers seeks, would cost an estimated $1,046,000 in state funds.

The state-supported colleges and universities will be seeking a major share of the surplus for construction and capital improvements.

The state Board of Higher Education decided last week to ask for almost $33 million for capital improvements for the tax-supported institutions, including the Medical Center expansion, but that figure is less than the $54.7 million that the colleges had requested.

In addition to the construction request, the board voted to seek $2 million more from the surplus to buy library books.

Bumpers' proposed program for the Medical Center envisions obtaining federal matching funds of between $8 million and $15 million. The governor has said his recommendation would permit the institution to increase its physician-candidate admissions from the 121 this year to 170 to 200 a year, which he said would accommodate all qualified students seeking entrance.

Dr. James Dennis, chief administrator of the Medical Center, said a maximum appropriation of $16 million in state funds would be needed to meet all the facility's needs, including construction of a new diagnostic treatment center for ambulatory care and a complete renovation of the teaching hospital, clinic and educational wing.

The proposal for the Medical Center is designed not only to enlarge the School of Medicine, but also to upgrade its offering in pharmacy, nursing and about 30 other schools in health-related professions.

Construction of a state library building has been a long-sought project. The library now is housed in quarters in a commercial building in downtown Little Rock.

Mrs. Karl Neal, the state librarian, said library officials wanted adequate space to allow them to increase services to the handicapped, adults and the public schools, act as the coordinating agency to provide library services to local institutions and to become a regional depository for federal documents.

She said a building containing 60,000 square feet would be a minimum.

Lee Reeves, director of the state educational television network, makes the estimate of the $1,046,000 cost in state funds for extending ETV statewide. He said the total cost would be about $3,330,000, but that the difference could be made up with federal funds.

Included is the cost of installing general switching equipment near Jonesboro, Fayetteville, Arkadelphia and Mountain View. There would continue to be only one production studio, at Conway. Nonsurplus educational items that the legislature is expected to consider are teacher salary increases, public school kindergarten and special education for physically and handicapped children, in addition to bigger operating appropriations.

Each would be expensive. For example, the average $900-a-year teacher raises recommended by the state Board of Education would cost an additional $10.3 million in the first year of the biennium and a like amount on top of that in the following year.

State Education Director A.W. Ford says that starting a public school kindergarten for 5 year olds would take $1.2 million in the first year of the biennium and $5.6 million in the second year.

He said the kindergarten program would reach about 30,000 children.

President 'wins' in vote by House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has voted to give President Nixon authority to hold back appropriations at his discretion and confine government spending through June 30 to $250 billion.

Nixon had pressed hard for the authority, saying it would ensure that no tax increase will be needed next year. But the bill faces possible trouble in the Senate.

Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., of the Senate Finance Committee, who set a tentative hearing on the measure this afternoon, opposes the broad authority it would give the President, as does Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield.

It was that question of authority over government spending which dominated the House debate and pitted some of its most prominent Democrats against each other.

House approval by a 221-163 vote Tuesday was a triumph for the President, who issued a statement saying, "The nation's taxpayers are the real winners in this action to provide insurance against any need for a tax increase."

The measure contains two sections. The disputed one authorizes the President to hold government spending for the current fiscal year to a maximum of $250 billion and gives him the power, regardless of any other laws, to choose where reductions will be made.

The cuts would range from $6 billion to $10 billion by present estimates.

The other section raises the present $450-billion debt ceiling to $465 billion through June 30. If Congress does not act on the debt ceiling, it drops automatically Oct. 31 to $460 billion, less than the current debt.

There must be some boost in the debt ceiling if Congress is to keep paying its bills after Oct. 31.

The House debate on the spending-ceiling provision found such Democratic leaders as Speaker Carl Albert and Appropriations Committee Chairman George H. Mahon opposing Ways and Means Committee Chairman Wilbur D. Mills.

Albert and other Democratic leaders favored a substitute offered by Mahon, D-Tex. It would have requested the President to submit recommendations for budget cuts, but would have left the ultimate decision to Congress.

The substitute lost, 215 to 167, and the House went on to final passage.

McGovern--

These are McGovern's seven points:

—An immediate order upon taking the presidential oath for U.S. forces to stop all bombing, military action and shipment of supplies, and start an orderly withdrawal under a 90-day time schedule.

—Directions for U.S. negotiators in Paris to tell the North Vietnamese that the United States expects them to meet this initiative with the return of all U.S. war prisoners and an accounting of those missing in action, also within 90 days.

—We would further notify all parties that the United States would no longer interfere in the internal politics of Vietnam and that we will allow the Vietnamese people to work out their own settlement.

—Dispatch of the vice president to Hanoi to supervise arrangements for return of prisoners and an accounting of those missing.

—Once all U.S. prisoners were returned and missing men accounted for, U.S. bases in Thailand would be closed and ships off the Indochinese coast would be moved.

—A joint effort with other countries to repair "the wreckage left by this war."

—An expanded aid program for U.S. veterans of the Vietnam war including a guarantee of "either a good job or a full funded higher education."

—Amnesty for young men who chose jail or exile to avoid fighting in the war, combined with a voluntary program of public service for those who wanted to demonstrate their objections were not to serving the nation but to participating in the Vietnam war.

Cabinet officers named in lawsuit

BY DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A lawsuit was filed today against two Nixon cabinet officers charging they head land-grant university aid programs of $750 million a year which cater to big agri-business and special interest groups to the detriment of small farmers, consumers and minorities.

The suit, filed in U.S. District Court here, names Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butts and Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Elliott Richardson and other officials.

Among the many demands, the complaint seeks a permanent injunction against federal spending on the "land grant complex" of 70 universities, agricultural research, experiment stations and extension services until new operating rules are provided.

"These standards and guidelines must insure that the ... apparatus includes a majority membership representing legitimate spokesmen for consumers, environmentalists, independent family farmers, farm workers, minorities, small-town businessmen, rural public officials and other interests," the complaint said.

The land-grant colleges and universities, nearly all state owned and operated, were endowed by grants of land under the Morrill Act of 1862. Federal funds, prorated under formulas, are appropriated annually into the institutions for agricultural research, rural extension services and other activities.

Organizations filing the lawsuit included: the National Coalition for Land-Grant Reform, Berkeley, Calif.; National Sharecroppers Fund Inc., Washington, D.C.; Georgia Council on Human Relations, Atlanta, Ga.; Midwest Council of La Raza, University of Notre Dame; and National Consumers League, Washington, D.C.

The complaint charges USDA and HEW of operating land grant programs in violation of federal civil rights laws, discrimination in employment and distribution of benefits and grants, and use of federal funds to benefit private interests and corporations without equal consideration for the public generally.

City ordinance is waived, tombstones to be put back

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — The Des Moines Park Board has waived a city ordinance and granted permission for the replacement of two home-made, concrete tombstones over the graves of Cynthia Frederick's two children.

Cemetery workmen hauled the concrete markers away when it was learned that an ordinance required gravestones to be made of bronze or granite.

The cemetery committee last week said it wouldn't recommend to the Park Board that an exception be made for the Frederick graves.

Mrs. Frederick said she made the concrete gravestones herself because she couldn't afford bronze or granite markers.

The cemetery committee's action met with a deluge of protests.

Mrs. Frederick, 31, is in West Germany with her soldier husband, Douglas, also 31, and the plan to the Park Board to reset the stones was made by her mother, Mrs. George Griffin.

Frederick, who is assigned to the 54th Military Police Co. in Stuttgart, West Germany, said his wife can't have any more children and that they plan to adopt a boy in Germany.

The Frederick's first child, Benjamin, died on March 8, 1971, and their second, Christa Ann, died on Jan. 5, 1972. They lived only about eight hours each and both were victims of a lung ailment.

Kissinger's talks with delegation in 4th day

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry Kissinger's talks with the North Vietnamese entered their fourth day in Paris today. The surprise extension of negotiations raised diplomatic eyebrows but brought no official word of progress.

President Nixon's assistant for national-security affairs had been scheduled to return to the White House Tuesday night after an unprecedented third day of talks with communist negotiators Le Duc Tho and Xuan Thuy.

Instead, Kissinger cabled Nixon that he and the communists had agreed to a fourth day of talks and that he would be returning tonight.

The extension was announced by the White House less than two hours before Nixon's election opponent, Democratic Sen. George McGovern, outlined on national television his plan to end the Vietnam war.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler denied that the private but highly publicized Paris negotiations were connected in any way to the election campaign. "None whatsoever," he told newsmen who asked about the timing.

Ziegler and other officials continued to refuse to give details—or even hints—of the substance of Kissinger's talks.

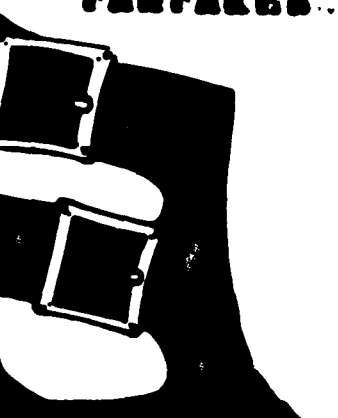

But Kissinger's extended stay in Paris—his 18th negotiating trip to the French capital in a three-year period—caused diplomatic circles to buzz with speculation that hard bargaining was under way in an effort to settle details of a cease-fire and political solution.

The latest public communist proposal demands Thieu's resignation and replacement of the Thieu government by a tripartite regime made up of the Viet Cong, neutral forces and Saigon officials unconnected with Thieu.

The United States, which publicly rejected the plan, has insisted it would never agree to any settlement that would result in imposition of a communist government in South Vietnam.

Thieu conferred again Tuesday with U.S. ambassador Ellsworth Bunker as a Saigon newspaper with links to the Thieu government reported that there has been no change in basic U.S. and South Vietnamese positions in the Paris talks.

There was a certain eastern expert who was famous or maybe infamous for practicing one little bit of gamesmanship. This gamesmanship worked pretty well against strangers but it put him at the mercy of people who knew about his little bit of minor skulduggery.

In today's hand we find him sitting West in a rubber bridge game. The bidding in the box represents the actual calls at the table but it does not show that West thought for a long while before passing after his partner's three-spade call.

A stranger might have felt that West was considering a four-spade bid but North knew all about West's little peccadillo.

He knew that West had no intention of going to four spades, then or later, and West's long thought was just a smoke screen designed to let his partner buy the hand at three.

Without this knowledge, North would surely have let East play three spades. He didn't have much of a raise for hearts and in addition he had no defense against four spades, but he knew West like a book.

East would have made exactly three spades. The play at four hearts started with East winning the spade lead. Three rounds of clubs came next. South ruffed; drew trumps; and went after diamonds, but he had no problem there. South knew West could not hold the diamond queen plus the other cards he had shown up with.

sometimes seems like a far tougher problem—fitting a figure.

Believe it or not, your own measurements can now be fed into a computer which will translate them into a paper pattern guaranteed to fit and flatter.

It's not a replacement for paper patterns and it is not cheap, but a computer-measured basic pattern can be a real boon.

Here's how it works, as described by Dusan Mirak, president of the Dritz Silhouette Personal Pattern Service. Seminars are set up in top department stores across dress and nine for the pants.

These are entered on an order form which is forwarded to programmers. The information is transferred to a card which is fed into a computer.

With considerable buzzing, whirring and blinking of lights, the computer relays the information to a machine equipped with special paper on rollers. As each measurement is logged, a stylus traces out the pattern, marking out darts, armholes, waistlines, the apex (highest point of the bosom), hip curves and skirt lengths. A dress pattern comes in three pieces (front, back, sleeve); a pants pattern in just two. Proper ease is allowed, in proportion to the basic size—more for a larger figure.

Meantime, back in the mail room, the envelope is being prepared which will send the owner her new pattern, an instruction sheet and her original hand-written order form. There's absolutely no chance, they say, of a woman getting someone else's pattern.

The computer card is filed. As new styles are added, it will be possible to mail order a computerized pattern without remeasuring. In addition to the basic shell, there will be the following silhouettes: empire, jumper, coat dress, A-line, raglan, surplice, two-piece, dirndl, front panel, shirtwaist, sheath and princess. Each will be sketched with variations. Coat and suit styles will be added later.

tern seminar, write to: Silhouette Patterns, PO Box 667, Rye, New York 10580.

STITCHIN' TIPS

Dear Joanne: I'm dying to try sewing up some of the pretty new knits, but I don't have a zigzag machine. Is there some way to sew knits with a straight-stitch sewing machine? T. O'B.

Dear T.: Of course—all you straight-stitchers can have pretty knits! Just stretch the seam as you sew, using a 9-16" stitch length, pulling from the front of the fabric. If your pattern calls for a narrow seam, sew along the 1/4-inch seam allowance, and close the edges together with another row of straight stitching. If your pattern calls for a 1/2" seam allowance, do the second row of stitching 1/4-inch to the right of the first, and trim away the excess. Happy sewing! Joanne.

Engineers form firm to build dulcimers

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)

The dulcimer, like so much and so many before it, has come West and in a small way is already bringing sweet sound to ears bludgeoned by today's series of bang bongs.

The dulcimer just tinkles like it did for the Appalachian mountain men generations ago. Now it is being exposed to the Northwest thanks to the interest and ingenuity of two men who can make airplanes and all sorts of much noisier contributions to modern society.

The dulcimer is a three-stringed mountain fiddle and it gets its name from that gentle word "dulcet" which of course means "sweet to the ear."

That is what attracted Dick Hatcher, an engineer at the Boeing Co., and he started to make the instruments. Carl Ulmacheider, a fellow engineer, joined in and they formed the Paget Sound Dulcimer Co.

Their work made its bow in the form of 18 various kinds of mandolin-like dulcimers put on display at a fair.

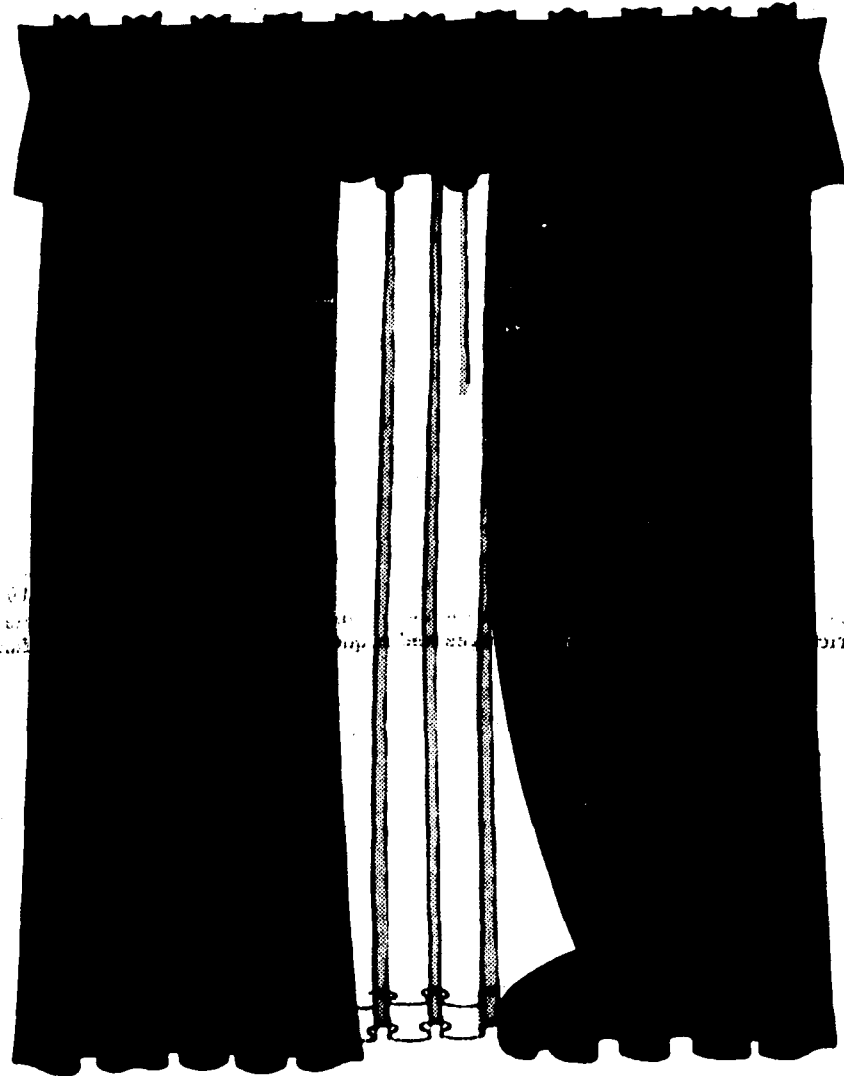

The partners strummed away and promptly sold five of them.

The instruments made of rosewood and spruce varied from the three to the five string variety and the makers varied the menu by occasionally making a Finnish lap harp.

They credit the early popularity to the simplicity of the dulcimer. A tune is picked out on one of the strings while all the strings are strummed with a feather pick. The effect is that of a melody superimposed over a bagpipe-kind of sound.

WHA bout tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Gary L. Davidson, who surprisingly announced just 11 months ago that his fledgling World Hockey Association would be ready to open play this fall will make good on his promise tonight.

He will drop the first puck in Cleveland, where the Crusaders will take on the Quebec Nordiques in the opener of the WHA's first season.

Also tonight, the Ottawa Nationals will host the Alberta Oilers in a game which will be nationally televised in Canada. Sellout crowds of about 10,000 are expected for each opener.

In an effort to compete with the long-established National Hockey League, the WHA has signed more than 60 NHL players, including a number of stars.

The new league will have a 10-minute overtime period to resolve ties, and play under a number of rules which have been modified in an attempt to aid the offenses.

Among the NHL stars who have been elected to jump to the new league are Bobby Hull, J.C. Tremblay, Derek Sanderson, Johnny McKenzie, Teddy Green and goalie Bernie Parent and Gerry Cheevers.

Although a number of law suits are pending, the courts already have ruled that Sanderson and Cheevers—two players who helped the Boston Bruins to the NHL championship last season—may compete in the WHA.

A decision on Hull, by far the WHA's top name attraction, is expected soon.

Among the WHA rules changes designed to help the offenses are:

—Sticks with blades curved as much as 1¼ inches will be permitted, where as the NHL maximum is one-half inch. The greater curvature lets the shooters get more spin on the puck.

—Offensive passes will be permitted to cross two lines, enhancing the chances for breakaways. These passes would be offside in the NHL.

—A team trying to kill a penalty must carry the puck out of its defensive zone before shooting it the length of the ice. This will help teams with power plays.

The remaining members of the 12-team league begin their schedules Thursday and Friday.

Pirates-Reds in showdown today

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates turned confidently toward reliable Steve Blass, while the Cincinnati Reds had to go with young and comparably inexperienced Don Gullett today in their showdown game for the 1972 National League pennant.

"I've got to like my chances with Blass," said Bill Virdon, manager of the Eastern Division champion Pirates.

Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson spoke more cautiously about the 22-year-old Gullett, who spent most of the season wracked with hepatitis and didn't make the starting rotation until mid-August.

"I look for Gullett to pitch like he did from the second inning in the first game of the series," said Anderson.

Gullett lost 5-1 to Blass in the first game, giving up three runs in the first inning and two more in the fifth during his six-inning stint. Anderson figures that Gullett had playoff jitters and will be more in control today.

Cincinnati forced the best-of-five series into the fifth and deciding game by trouncing the Pirates 7-1 Tuesday behind the two-hit pitching of young Ross Grimsley. The Reds stole three bases, hit and ran, and took advantage of three Pittsburgh errors.

Virdon had a right to be smug about his apparent pitching advantage for the final game. Blass won two games for Pittsburgh in last year's World Series victory over Baltimore, the Eastern Division pennant-clincher this season, and the first game of this playoff series.

The 30-year-old right-hander was 19-8 this season, while Gullett posted a 9-10 record as the Reds easily won the National League West title. Gullett missed at least six weeks of the season and spent another month or so working himself back into shape.

Ironically, Pirates' catcher Manny Sanguillen and left fielder Rennie Stennett, heroes of the Pirates' 3-2 third game victory were the goats of Tuesday's defeat. The Reds ran wild on the bases on Sanguillen, while Stennett lost two fly balls in the sun.

Pittsburgh's problems started in the first inning when Sanguillen threw into centerfield as Johnny Bench stole second. Bobby Tolan scored on the error. In the fourth, Gene Alley dropped a pop fly along the foul line in short left field allowing Bench to score. Alley then compounded the mistake by throwing wildly in trying to get Bench at the plate, allowing the batter, Cesar Geronimo, to reach third from where he scored on a single.

Cincinnati boosted its lead to 5-0 in the sixth on a double by Denis Menke, an infield out, an intentional walk, another stolen base, Grimsley's run-scoring single and an RBI bunt by Pete Rose.

Two more Reds' runs scored in the seventh on Joe Morgan's single, a triple by Tolan that Stennett lost in the sun, and a single by Menke that also had Stennett shielding his eyes from the sun.

Coleman born for baseball

DETROIT (AP) — Joe Coleman virtually was born to play baseball.

The lanky Detroit right-hander is the son of former major league pitcher Joe Coleman, who worked for the Athletics, Tigers and Orioles between 1942 and 1955.

Young Joe was a first-round draft pick by the old Washington Senators in 1965 and won his first two major league starts less than four months after finishing a sparkling high school career at Natick, Mass.

But when Coleman beat the Oakland A's Tuesday, keeping the Tigers alive in the American League championship series, he called it the biggest victory of his life.

"It wasn't one of my best games," he said in the Tiger dressing room, "but I got out of trouble when I had to. And it was certainly the most important game I've ever won."

The Tigers entered Tuesday's game trailing 2-0 in the best-of-five series.

Danny Rhodes:

Speed is the difference

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) —Arkansas linebacker Danny Rhodes went to the movies last week to see an educational film.

He learned fast. The film clips were from the Razorbacks' victory over the University of Texas last year and a narrow triumph over Oklahoma State University earlier this year. The object was to compare the defensive pursuit.

"They began to see that the one step we were out of position enabled Oklahoma State to make the big play," said Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles.

"I think it made us realize that we hadn't played the way we could," Rhodes said. "We hadn't really been pursuing as a unit. You have to have lots of pursuit to play good defense these days."

Rhodes used his 4.8 speed in the 40 to pursue from sideline to sideline, making 14 unassisted tackles and five assists in a 27-13 victory over TCU. For his play, Rhodes was named Defensive Player of the Week in the Southwest Conference by The Associated Press.

"He played his best game since the Texas game of last year," Broyles said. "His speed makes all the difference. He was all over the field."

The 6-foot-1, 217-pound Rhodes was named Sophomore Defensive Player of the Year in the SWC last year and earned a spot on the all-conference team.

Rhodes' teammate, quarterback Joe Ferguson, was named Offensive Player of the Week after completing 20 of 32 passes for 304 yards and four touchdowns.

Hogs get it all together

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Baylor Coach Grant Teaff considers himself an A-No. 1 prognosticator.

"I predicted last week that Arkansas would put it all together one week before they played us, and they did," Teaff said.

The Razorbacks, after scoring one-point victories over Oklahoma State and Tulsa, scored touchdowns on four consecutive second-half possessions to defeat TCU 27-13 last week.

"They played super in the second half," Teaff said in an interview. "They had been having some problems, but they looked like national champions."

Baylor opens its Southwest Conference season Saturday at Fayetteville against Arkansas, the preseason favorite for the conference championship.

Surprisingly, Baylor is 3-1—losing to Georgia and then defeating Missouri and Miami.

"I really didn't worry too much about what kind of record we would have at this point," Teaff said. "We wanted to become competitive and be a football team to be reckoned with."

We wanted to play each game with pride and leave the field better than we were when we came on. We felt like the record would take care of itself.

"To be very frank about it, we like to play the University of Arkansas," Teaff said. "They're awesome, but golly, that's what it's all about. We feel like they will make us a better football team."

He also said that the Razorback defense may have been overlooked by some.

"They're very quick and very strong and they pursue the football like mad," he said. "We're not blessed with a lot of speed and that's a tremendous handicap."

Hogs-Horns game to be televised

Tigers trail by two

DETROIT (AP) — Although they still were only one game from elimination, the Detroit Tigers weren't ready to back away from the challenge provided by the Oakland Athletics heading into today's fourth American League playoff game.

Trailing two games to none in the best-of-five series, the Tigers got a two-run single from surprise starter Ike Brown and a playoff-record setting 14-strikeout performance from Joe Coleman in beating the A's 3-0 Tuesday.

Since the playoff system was adopted in 1969 when the leagues were divided into two divisions, no team has come from a 2-0 deficit and won three games and the pennant.

"We don't have the edge, but if we win tomorrow we'll have the edge going into the final game," Detroit Manager Billy Martin said.

He was to send stopgap ace Mickey Lolich against Oakland's Jim "Catfish" Hunter in today's game. Lolich was the loser in the 11-inning, 3-2 opening playoff game.

"No manager has an excuse for losing when he has a Mickey Lolich and Woodie Fryman in that order at home," said Martin, who will send Fryman to the mound on Thursday should the Tigers win today.

Before Tuesday's game, Martin held a short team meeting. "It was no rah, rah job," he explained, "I just said we should have won the first game, we didn't play well in the second, and now we need to reach back for that little extra."

Brown reached back for that little extra in the fourth inning, cracking a low, inside fast ball by Ken Holtzman through the box for a bases-loaded, two-run single. Detroit had loaded the bases on a walk to Al Kaline, a double by Bill Freehan, and a walk to Willie Horton.

"No, it wasn't a bold move," Martin said of the insertion of Brown into the starting lineup at first base. "Ike is used to playing in and out."

"It was beautiful," Brown said of the hit. "I think it was the biggest hit of my career because it might have turned things around for us."

"I think it's pretty tough to be in the play like that because I didn't get to play much the last three weeks of the season."

Brown said. "I think I only pinch hit three times."

Coleman was another Tiger who reached back for a little extra, establishing his rhythm with a good fast ball, then coming in with his favorite pitch—the fork ball.

The previous playoff strikeout record was 12, set by Baltimore's Jim Palmer in 1970 against Minnesota.

"It wasn't one of my best games, I think, but I got out of trouble when I had to," the 25-year-old right-hander said.

"I quite often pitch better with men on base. You just bear down. You're a little lax when you don't have them on."

The A's stranded 10 runners, with Coleman in serious trouble several times. In the first inning, he gave up a double to Matty Alou and walked Dal Maxvill before striking out the side.

"We're still in good shape," Oakland Manager Dick Williams said. "We're still ahead, two games to one."

"We had more opportunities but we didn't get the hit. It wasn't for lack of trying. Give Coleman credit for that. He was tough when he had to be."

KKK is rebuilding its power structure

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The Ku Klux Klan that ruled Indiana with terror and pageantry in the 1920s says it's rebuilding its realm in the 1970s with ballots, bumper stickers and ball point pens.

The hooded order that dominated Indiana from the rural tavern to the Statehouse holds open conventions at Holiday Inns and files complaints with the Indiana Civil Liberties Union.

The "invisible empire" is more visible than at any time since the civil rights backlash of the 1960s and 60s and is wielding the highly visible tools of community organization, advertising and old-fashioned prairie politics.

Grand Dragon William Chaney of Indianapolis told the Associated Press Indiana's Klan "is the most formidable—the strongest—north of the Mason-Dixon Line."

Chaney, a part-time paper server for Decatur Township Justice Court, says the Klan "doesn't want to burn and destroy. We're going to bring about change in the political arena... If we use violence we might as well blow our own brains out."

But in case the ballot doesn't produce the desired results, King Kleagle Paul Book of Kokomo readily admits the Klan "is training vigilantes and will use them for self-defense if blacks, socialists and communists take over and we lose individual freedom."

The Klan claims to be organizing junior Klans in racially troubled schools and providing "intelligence materials" about the Black Panthers said the Students for a Democratic Society SDS.

Crosses still are burned on lawns. Virulent literature about "communistic niggerism" still finds its way into manufacturing plants, neighborhoods and high schools. The Klan still has its brushes with the law over weapons permits, illegal mailings, court injunctions and alleged possession of dynamite. Chaney himself is appealing a conviction in Ann Arbor, Mich., last March for possession of a concealed pistol and tear gas cannister.

But the heritage of the night rider and the taint of violence are being played down today in favor of slogans of law and order and political change.

Chaney, a corpulent man with a waxed moustache and a Southern Drawl, readily agreed to an interview in a southside Indianapolis tavern which he said was owned "by one of us."

"But don't say that," the Dragon admonished with a wink over his beer. "the Klan officially frowns on this sort of thing."

Chaney, a former advertising salesman, provided reams of Klan leaflets, provided other Klansmen for interviews and said, "Any publicity is good as long as we can get people to say 'Klan.'"

He compares the Klan "to an iceberg—only the tip shows. We'd bloom out like a rose at night if only people weren't afraid and the FBI would stop harassing us."

State and local police agree if unchecked the Klan would grow much faster in Indiana. Although Chaney refuses to divulge membership figures, law enforcement officials place the membership of record at about 500, with a dedicated core of 150 card-carrying Klansmen in 15 units or Klaverns.

Five years ago the membership was virtually zero. Police attribute the Klan's rapid resurgence to the backlash against court-ordered school busing in Indianapolis and the salesmanship of Chaney, a former Kentucky farmer, miner and truck-loader.

Chaney compares himself to an evangelist and says his goal is to organize basic Klan units of klaverns in all 92 counties and bring about 400,000 persons—or 10 per cent of Indiana's white population—into the Klan fold.

He says Indiana is especially fertile ground because it has many southerners and is the fountainhead of the John Birch Society and the American Legion. But Indiana is only one of the clearest examples of a nationwide campaign to recruit members and legitimize the Klan without sacrificing its gothic appeal.

The Klan is holding more ceremonial cross-burnings and full robed street walks in court-house square than five years ago. They conscientiously check with police to comply with local regulations but prefer private property for cross-burning rallies.

The Klan occasionally scatters leaflets in neighborhoods at night and shopping centers during the day, sometimes placing leaflets on windshields of cars at NAACP meetings, according to police.

In addition to the standard fair of white supremacy, Klansmen and women distribute patriotic green and black bumper stickers, racist joke cards and green plastic pens that say "United Klans of America, Box 428, Greenwood, Ind."—the official mailing address.

On their way out of taverns, restaurants or gas stations, Klansmen may drop a "patronage card," picturing a hooded Klansman on a charger.

"The house is late ... Darkness is all around ... Don't be half a man, join the Klan," are sales pitches on reams of Klan literature collected by The Associated Press.

Other literature instructs white students to organize a "fighting corps" to combat "black bullies."

The Klan promises young members robes and literature about "white supremacy." Leaflets promise they will be trained in Karate and manual self defense and martial arts and receive "military lectures and instructions relative to field work."

"Why fear black gang assaults in school halls or outside any longer," a pamphlet asks.

"If the school will not, or can not protect you, then protect yourselves, organize, train, prepare and then, strike back against black terrorists."

The Klan was an old hand at politics in the 1920s when it openly elected a governor, senators and numerous state and local officials. But today it dares not openly identify with any of its endorsed candidates, except Alabama Gov. George Wallace in 1966.

"At this point it might do candidates more harm than good, until people and Politicians have more guts," Chaney believes. He claims the Klan has helped elect "a few local politicians" and is campaigning in the November election.

Robert Green, an Indianapolis laborer who serves as Chaney's body guard and the Klan's music director, says, "Politicians are patting the nigger so much on the back ... they let the nigger do anything and the white man is getting to be what the nigger was 100 years ago ... we need strong leaders."

Many Klansmen find the American Independent Party most suited to their beliefs.

Several Indiana Klansmen were delegates to the AIP convention last month in Louisville.

But Chaney pragmatically says the AIP "doesn't stand a chance this year" and recommends Klansmen vote for Nixon. "A vote for the AIP at this time is like a vote for Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern," he warns.

If McGovern is elected, Chaney predicts "in two years we'll have fighting in the streets between blacks and whites."

The Klan forms political action and education committees which conduct grass roots campaigns, distribute literature—both for and against candidates—and go door to door without identifying themselves as Klansmen.

The Klan's organizational structure in Indiana is suited particularly to political mobilization, Chaney says, because Klan "provinces" are congruent with the state's 11 congressional districts.

Raquel Welch

"...screwed up in my head for a few years."

Raquel scores in roller roll

HOLLYWOOD—(N E A)—Raquel Welch is the girl who has everything. She wouldn't have agreed until very lately. The one thing she never had was good reviews.

Now she has. Because of "Kansas City Bomber," people have had some kind things to say about her acting. Before, she was the prime target of movie critics, the girl they loved to cut into little pieces.

But "Kansas City Bomber," to everyone's surprise, including Raquel's, changed all that. The critics, generally, thought she did a fine job as the Roller Derby hot-shot. The public is flocking to see the movie, which probably will make it one of '72s biggest financial winners.

Maybe it's the subject matter. Maybe it's got something to do with Women's Lib. Maybe it's the timing. But probably it's because Raquel Welch is a new woman.

"In the last few years," she says, "I've become more sure of myself. I think now I know what I'm doing."

"I knew when I first started that the only reason I got any jobs was because of the way I looked. It made me screwed up in my head for a few years.

"I couldn't act and I knew it. I'd studied acting in high school and in my one year of college but I still didn't know the first thing about acting."

But she acted, because it was what she wanted to do and because she got jobs because she looked pretty and mostly because she needed to earn a living.

"How else," she says, "could I support my two children? I was a teen-age mother. I had two children and wanted to give them a comfortable life. At that time in my life the only thing I was worried about was that my looks would go away."

She acted. She acted in films in which she knew she was only hired because of her face and figure. It gave her no artistic satisfaction, but it paid the bills.

"I have materialistic appetites," she says. "So my career was good. I made money. Now I can send my children to good schools and give them the things all mothers want their children to have."

She was more or less content. The money was coming in. But she learned there was more to life than loot. Even if you're living well, you have to live with yourself.

"I was terribly unsure of myself," she says. "I remember, when I was doing 'Fantastic Voyage,' every day for five months I'd sit in the commissary at lunch time with Stephen Boyd and Edmond O'Brien and Donald Pleasence and I'd hardly know what they were talking about. It wasn't only things about acting, but words I didn't know and restaurants and foods I'd never heard of. And I'd try to act sophisticated and knowing, but I wasn't."

She fooled a lot of people, during those tremulous days, but not everybody.

"At first," she says, "I'd try to contribute something on the set. When I made 'One Million Years B.C.' I'd say to the director that I had an idea of some way to improve the scene. And he'd just turn to me and say, 'Look, if you can manage to run from that rock over there to this rock over here, that's all we want from you.'"

Youth driven up a tree by shortage in housing

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — The housing shortage at the University of North Carolina has driven many students "up the wall." It's driven Chip Hope up a tree.

Hope, 21, arrived at school this term for his junior year and decided that doubling up in a single room wasn't for him. He found a place to lay his head midway up a 40-foot pecan tree in a grove about five minutes from the campus.

Chip's $20 home is a six-foot square wooden platform. It has a green tarp that keeps out some of the rain and a rope ladder, but no walls or electricity. "This is not the place for someone who tosses and turns in his sleep," he says.

He calls his abode "Antler Lodge," after a society he belonged to while in high school. It's equipped with a blue reading pillow, a goose-down sleeping bag, some foam rubber pads, a candle and an alarm clock. Some friendly neighbors let him use the bathroom in a nearby house.

The Charlotte, N.C., native says there were really three reasons for his decision to live in a tree. It was hard to find other accommodations in the crowded university community; those that were available were expensive; and he likes treehouses. "I must have built six of them when I was a kid," he said.

His leafy bower, he says, has some advantages. It's cool on hot, humid days, and it's a good place to study.

Entertaining is a bit more difficult.

"I had seven people up here for a party," he said. "And some were kind of hanging on the edges, and some were worried about whether the platform would hold together."

When the weather turns cooler, Hope says, he will look for more conventional quarters — but nothing elaborate. "I can live in places where other people couldn't store a suitcase," he said.

In his career at Chapel Hill, he reports having lived in a dormitory, a house, a fraternity room, a fraternity basement and a fraternity closet.

Mufflers are major ROLLO, Mo. (UPI)—The design improvement of mufflers to alleviate noise pollution is a major area study at the Rolla campus of the University of Missouri.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Seeking alternatives to the pill

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I donate blood to a blood bank once or twice a year. Do they check for syphilis? Should I be secure in not having a disease since I give blood? I recently broke up with a man I expected to marry as I am quite sure he's been cheating on me. I'm not promiscuous. I do get a physical about every six months. Would my doctor know through lab tests and pelvic exams that I am in good health. I'm in my 40s and am ashamed to say that I know so little about this subject. I do read about it and it scares me although I haven't any physical evidence to warrant my worries.

Dear Reader — Yes, the blood bank tests all blood it collects for syphilis. In the first few weeks of infection the tests can be negative and sometimes in individuals who have had it for several years, the tests can be negative. But with regular examinations such as you described it is most unlikely that you would have a negative test and still have syphilis.

Although a blood test is now being developed for gonorrhea, at present it is not available and the test has to be made from a culture obtained during the pelvic examination. Without the culture test the pelvic examination might be negative and the woman still could have gonorrhea.

About 80 per cent of the women who have gonorrhea have no symptoms, which is one reason that the disease has gotten out of hand and exists in epidemic proportions in this country. A new office culture test method is available now which should make it easy for practicing doctors to determine if a woman has gonorrhea or not, even if she has no symptoms and there's no good evidence of it on the physical examination. If you're worried about it, why don't you ask your doctor to test you for it.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Is there anything that can be done to remove a keloid scar. Recently I had some moles removed from my face and back and now they have healed into a keloid scar. My doctor says they are hereditary. They just look terrible.

Dear Reader — A keloid scar is an overgrowth of the scar tissue even to the point of forming masses or tumors. They more often occur before age 35 and particularly in individuals with dark skin.

If they are cut away, there is a great chance that they will just come back again, unless they are done in later years and then, with increased age, they are less likely to recur.

For this reason, most doctors who remove keloid scars like to use X-ray or other treatment over the fresh operation area, and for some time thereafter to try to prevent a recurrence of the keloids. X-ray therapy is not very beneficial in treating an old keloid and usually must be used with new surgery.

North Vietnam: 'Ant power' at work

Editors Note: AP Special Correspondent Peter Arnett, the winner of a Pulitzer Prize in eight years of war reporting from South Vietnam, has just completed his first visit to North Vietnam. In the following story he describes the "ant power" of the North Vietnamese war effort and the wonder of a visitor, wonder not at the destruction of U.S. bombing but at the survival power of the North Vietnamese.

By PETER ARNETT
AP Special Correspondent
If you have wondered why the North Vietnamese can continue to fight on despite the biggest bombing campaign in the history of war, then ride with three U.S. pilots and me down the roads south of Hanoi and find out.

Our destination was Nam Dinh City and the Phat Diem Cathedral, both severely bombed, and showplaces of the destructive power of the American air campaign. Jane Fonda and Ramsey Clark had been there. Now it was the turn of the three pilots just released from a prisoner-of-war camp — Navy Lt. Mark Gartley and Norris Charles, and Air Force Major Edward Elias — and myself.

But long before we reached our destination we were shaking our heads in wonder, not at the destructive power of the bombs from the sky but at the survival power of the people on the ground.

The pilots' previous view of North Vietnam was from the skies above. For years I had watched from the vantage point of South Vietnam.

Now here on the ground as we rolled along the narrow highways in the dark hours before dawn, the clichés came true.

Here was the "ant power" that Pentagon experts theorized lay behind Hanoi's ability to keep supplies and men moving to the southern war fronts. Where bombs had scored direct hits on railway cars on the tracks paralleling the road, dark shapes hammered at twisted wreckage, while other figures carried material and dumped it into the craters. As dawn came and we passed through the railroad junction of severely bombed Phu Le, we saw that the dark shapes were women and they weren't even using buckets; they were carrying mud in their bare hands to fill the craters in, and they seemed to be enjoying it.

This "ant power" was everywhere. Whereas in South Vietnam the war has denuded the countryside of population and sent people scurrying into the cities, in the North it is the reverse, and they swarmed on the highway.

Walking or riding bicycles along lonely roads in South Vietnam at night can mean death or capture. But in the North, nighttime is the logical time to travel for the faint-hearted, or for the supply convoys, because it affords protection from the planes that fly above.

The key to the use of the night is simply that there are no guerrillas to harass the convoys or blow up the supplies. In North Vietnam the war is only from the air.

That is why I observed no barbed wire anywhere, no barricaded militia outposts or fortified bunkers. Except for when the planes came over, the North Vietnamese countryside looked positively bucolic. But few things are ever what they seem, and Elias, who piloted a reconnaissance plane before he was shot down five months ago, enlightened me.

"See those grave mounds?" Elias asked as we waited under the trees for a ferry to cross a river where a bridge had been destroyed. About 100 yards away, buffalo grazed quietly around the mounds of earth.

"They're antiaircraft pits with the muzzles down," Elias said. "Let a plane come over and they'll stick up their snouts and blast away. And those things are difficult to spot in pictures. It would take a very expert and very lucky PI (photo interpreter) to see them."

The discovery of the flak sites and the industrious people were possibly predictable enough. Enough American planes get shot down each week to adequately suggest the extent of the antiaircraft fire. And "people power" has long been known as North Vietnam's most important commodity.

What was mindbending to the freed pilots was the extent of North Vietnam's visible supply chain. From the time we left the outskirts of Hanoi at 4 a.m.

one morning to our return at 8 p.m. the next night we constantly encountered vehicle convoys, rows of stacked ammunition alongside the road-sides and gasoline drums. These were stretched out along the 100 miles we drove, and other foreign visitors in Hanoi at the time attested they saw similar scenes on different roads.

During daylight the vehicles were casually parked, under the inevitable line of trees at roadside. On some long, straight stretches of highway we counted as many as 40 trucks.

They seemed extremely vulnerable, but Charles commented, "We could never see those things from the air. And the moment someone comes down to get a better look them — blam, man."

This simple roadside covered ammunition caches up to 1,000 cases in size, according to my fast counts from the moving automobile. Particularly noticeable were concentrations of supplies at bombed-out railway crossings.

In the evenings as the trucks began to move south loaded with supplies, the whole operation reminded me of a huge glacier forcing itself slowly but surely down a mountain valley.

Reflecting on the scenes one evening at a rest house in Ninh Binh province, Gartley said, "I used to fly over this place and it seemed uninhabited. But look, it is teeming with life."

Gartley later said, "All the pilots really have for targets are the cities, the bridges and the railways. Yet the North Vietnamese move out from the cities and use these back roads."

Elias said, "It is technology against ideology. I just wonder how far technology can go because the Vietnamese habitually beat it." He mentioned that Hanoi has found a partial answer to the threat of the laser-guided "smart" bombs that can zero in accurately on targets.

"The North Vietnamese put up smoke around the target. If you don't see it you can't hit it," Elias said.

The North Vietnamese glorify in their ability to outwit the U.S. planes.

"You have to fight this war with intelligence, not with computers," Prime Minister Pham

Van Dong told the antiwar activists who went to Hanoi to pick up the released pilots. "The computers merely multiply man's stupidity thousands of times," he said, rocking forward in his chair with a knowing smile.

I was wondering how a computer could determine the number of handfuls of mud required to fill a bomb crater, or the manpower needed to load and unload supplies that are leapt from train to train across the bombed out portions of track each night on the way south.

But all those bombs raining on North Vietnam are dropping somewhere, and in interviews with top officials I got the impression that severe damage is being done.

"Whole cities have been destroyed. Hospitals, schools, churches have been destroyed. There have been so many victims," said Premier Dongn when the antiwar activists asked if the American people could help contribute to reconstruction.

War Eagle Fair set this month

WAR EAGLE—How does the tiny Ozarks community of War Eagle Mills annually lure upwards of 100,000 visitors to its Arts and Crafts Fair?

The magic behind the phenomenal success of this nationally acclaimed event is attributed to the inimitable displays and the historic farm on which it is held.

Secluded in a small valley, War Eagle provides the perfect setting for the popular performance. The farm and fair personify the romance, legends and untouched natural beauty of another area, and greatly enhance the exquisite works of over 350 participating artists and craftsmen expected at this year's 19th successive fair scheduled for Oct. 20-22.

Fair director Mrs. Blanche H. Elliott and her husband Lester oversee the farm which they acquired in 1952. Mrs. Elliott explained, "I sincerely feel that the fair's success lies in the superb craftsmanship for which War Eagle is noted, and also the exceptional beauty of the area."

The 140-year-old Elliott home is symbolic of many vanished primitive Ozarks villages, and housed many of the arts and crafts exhibits during the first fair in 1954. Other exhibits at that time were placed in the old village store, which served the needs of a bustling community before the turn of the 20th century.

How did the fair come about? Mrs. Elliott explained that it was conceived and perpetuated by natives as a tribute to their forefathers who came to the Arkansas Ozarks before statehood. "Our show is authentic and staged without fanfare or make-believe, and strives to give recognition to deserving artists and craftsmen."

A group known as the Northwest Arkansas Handweavers Guild originated the idea for the fair from a weaving school in 1953. A weaving exhibit was opened to the public at the close of the school, which generated so much enthusiasm and admiration that the guild conceived an arts and crafts exhibition representing all the Ozarks. The Ozarks Arts and Crafts Fair Association eventually took over sponsorship of the event and has been directing it ever since.

Attendance at the first fair exceeded all expectations, with 2,250 visitors and 35 exhibitors registered from 21 states. One estimate had 5,000 in attendance.

This year's fair will feature the works of artists and craftsmen from Arkansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Kansas. Some 400 booths will be displayed in the three large circus-type tents and main building.

The fair will open each day at 9 a.m. and close at 5 p.m., with plenty of food available for anyone desiring to eat lunch on the grounds.

Admission and parking are free to the public.

War Eagle is located near the Northwest Arkansas towns of Springdale, Rogers, Fayetteville and Huntsville.

Campaign '72:

On trail with Spiro

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's plush 727 had just whooshed down when an aide chuckled to those aboard, "How lucky you are."

"Just think," he said, "Sarge Shriver is probably walking through North Passaic, N.J., right now."

"Yeah," came another voice down the aisle of the jet. "And on his way to East Passaic."

True, that three-day getaway for golf and tennis beneath a desert sun tended to exaggerate the point. But even the busiest election forays of Spiro Agnew—despite his role as Richard Nixon's No. 1 campaigner—are geared to a minimum of mess, fuss, and rush.

While Democratic nominees George McGovern and Sargent Shriver have spirited themselves to several cities or states within a day, often starting at sunup and going past midnight, the vice president rarely arises without a solid

Names to be placed on ballot

MORRILTON, Ark. (AP) — The Election Commission in Conway County decided Tuesday to place the names of Republican candidates for county offices and six Democratic candidates for alderman at Plumerville on the general election ballot despite the candidates' failure to comply with the new election code.

The commission took the action after the Democratic slate of officers in the county wrote T. O. Adams, chairman of the commission, asking that the Republicans be placed on the ballot, and after receiving an attorney general's opinion.

"We feel that the Nov. 7 election should be an election that gives the voters of Conway County a choice as to persons and parties," the Democratic candidates wrote Adams. "If the commission can legally put these persons on the ballot regardless of their failure to strictly comply with the law, we recommend that their names be submitted to the voters of Conway County."

The Plumerville candidates had failed to pay their fee to the proper persons as stipulated in the election law or had failed to file a receipt of fee payment.

LEGAL NOTICE

IN THE PROBATE COURT OF HEMPSTEAD COUNTY, ARKANSAS IN THE MATTER OF THE GUARDIANSHIP OF WILLIE A. MATTHEWS.
NO. 2188

All interested persons are hereby notified that the undersigned guardian, will on the 27th day of October, 1972, at 10:00 o'clock A.M. present to the Probate Court of Hempstead County, Arkansas, a petition to sell ward's interest in and to the following described property located in Hempstead County, Arkansas:

Part of Block 2 in College Addition to the City of Hope, described as follows, to-wit: Commence at the Southwest corner of said Block 2, and run thence Northerly along the West boundary line of said block 81 feet to Point of Beginning, run thence Northerly along West boundary line of said block (which is also the East boundary line of Pine Street in said city) 61 feet, run thence Easterly and at right angles to said Pine Street 150 feet to the West boundary line of the right-of-way of the St. Louis-San Francisco & New Orleans Railway Company (referred to in prior conveyances as St. Louis-San Francisco Railroad Company), run thence Southerly and parallel to Pine Street 61 feet, run thence Westerly and at right angles to Pine Street 150 feet back to the Point of Beginning.

The petition will seek permission of this Court to sell said ward's interest in and to the above described property at a private sale.

All interested persons are hereby given notice that said petition will be presented to said Court on the date above mentioned at the Hempstead County Courthouse and that they should take notice to be present should they desire to, in any way, contest said petition. WITNESS my hand and seal as guardian on this 9th day of October, 1972.

Mary Matthews Greene

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Robert Fulton made the first practical steamboat trip on the Clermont when it left New York on Aug. 17, 1807, and reached Albany, 150 miles upriver, in 32 hours. The World Almanac says. Previous to "Fulton's Folly" there had been some 18 other steamboats constructed, but the public had failed to accept them as a practical method of travel.
